- 1 In addition to the Sales Charge, clients investing in equity Unit Trusts will pay certain Organizational Costs, as well as Annual Expenses. These costs are deducted from income received by the trust. If the income is insufficient, individual securities will be sold. See the "Fee Table" in the prospectus for the estimated amount of expenses for each trust.
- 2 In addition to the Sales Charge, clients investing in fixed income Unit Trusts will pay certain Organizational Costs, as well as Annual Expenses. An amount of cash is deposited into the trust to pay the Organizational Costs and deducted by the Trustee, generally, at the end of the Initial Offering Period. Annual expenses are payable by the trust. If the balances in the interest and principal accounts are insufficient, individual bonds will be sold. See the "Expenses" section on the Summary of Essential Financial Information page in the prospectus for the amount of Organization Costs and Estimated Annual Expenses per Unit for each trust.
- 3 Concessions may be higher or lower depending on the quantity of units underwritten by a participating broker-dealer or selling agent. Individual payout may vary.
- 4 Aggregated purchases consisting of rollover and/or exchange proceeds exceeding certain amounts may be subject to a sales charge lower than the amount listed. Please refer to the prospectus for further details about sales charge discounts.

Reducing a Client's Sales Charge. Invesco offers a variety of ways for your clients to reduce the sales charge that they pay. It is the financial professional's responsibility to alert Invesco of any discount before your clients purchase units. Before your clients purchase units they should inform you, the financial professional, of their qualification for any discount or of any combined purchases to be eligible for a reduced sales charge. Your clients can reduce their sales charge by increasing the size of their investment. If your clients purchase the amount shown in the tables above during the initial offering period, the sales charge will be as listed. Except in certain cases, these quantity discount levels apply only to purchases of a single trust made by the same person on a single day from a single broker-dealer. For purposes of achieving these levels your clients may be able to combine purchases of units of multiple Invesco sponsored trusts in the initial offering period. In addition, units purchased in the name of your client's spouse or children under 21 living in the same household as your client may be combined in some cases for the purposes of calculating the applicable quantity discount level. To be eligible for aggregation as described in this paragraph, all purchases must be made on the same day through a single broker-dealer or selling agent. Investors in fee-based accounts will be subject only to the Creation and Development Fee for purchases of equity unit trusts, and will generally only pay the portion of the sales charge retained by the trust's sponsor for purchases of fixed income trust units. Please refer to the prospectus for each trust for complete information on these and other sales charge discounts.

Before investing, investors should carefully read the prospectus and consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. For this and more complete information about the trust(s), investors should ask their advisers for a prospectus or download one at invesco.com/uit.

Invesco's history of offering unit investment trusts began with the acquisition of the sponsor by Invesco Ltd. in June 2010. Invesco unit investment trusts are distributed by the sponsor, Invesco Capital Markets, Inc. and broker dealers including Invesco Distributors, Inc. Both firms are wholly owned, indirect subsidiaries of Invesco Ltd.
