

Invesco Summit Growth Range

A range of actively managed multi-asset funds investing for growth.

Introduction

Investing is one of the most effective ways to grow and preserve your wealth over the long term, as well as achieving those all-important financial objectives, such as buying a house, funding retirement or leaving inheritance.

Investment risks

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested.

For details of all associated investment risks, please see page 07.

Having a well-constructed investment portfolio is key to securing the future you want, so it's therefore important that it's in safe hands.

The Invesco Summit Growth Range is a set of five actively-managed funds spanning different risk levels. With the help of your financial adviser, you simply pick the one that's right for you, and we'll do the rest.

How an investment portfolio works

When investing for the long term, funds are typically used to build an investment portfolio.

A fund spreads risk by investing across a range of investments, which is known as financial diversification.

Investing through funds like this can therefore offer smoother returns versus putting all your eggs in one basket (or a few baskets) by investing in individual companies or other risky investments like cryptocurrencies.

When building an investment portfolio, multiple funds are blended together, adding another level of diversification and ensuring you have the right balance of investments to suit your tolerance to risk.

Higher risk portfolios will typically allocate to higher risk assets, like equities, while lower risk portfolios will instead favour assets such as bonds. With more risk you have a higher return potential over the long term, but you will also experience greater volatility in the short term.

Our service

The Invesco Summit Growth Range provides a selection of pre-built, globally-diversified funds for you to choose from.

Fund 5 has the highest risk target and greatest return potential over the long term, but will also experience more short-term volatility. Fund 1 has the lowest risk target, and will consequently have lower return potential and the least volatility of the range. With the help of your financial adviser, you simply choose the one that's right for you and we'll do the rest.

What are the investments?

The Invesco Summit Growth Range adopts a blended approach that combines active and passive funds, providing exposure to a broad range of asset classes (such as equities and bonds) and geographies.

There are over 800 underlying funds available to the range, all of which are Invesco managed, so you can rest easy knowing that your money is in the experienced hands of one of the world's largest asset managers.

Each portfolio is invested in 20–30 funds, which in turn spreads your cash across 3,000+ investments on average across the range.

Charges

As the range invests only in Invesco funds, we're able to pass cost savings on to you.

This is 0.65% when investing directly with Invesco or alternatively, if you invest via a third party platform, 0.40%.

The Ongoing Charge is a fixed rate and covers the majority of the operating costs of the funds incurred over a year, such as investment management, administration, audit and legal fees. For a full breakdown of charges that apply to each of the funds, please refer to our Costs & Charges document at invesco.com/uk/icvc-charges.

Please note, like other services, this is in addition to platform charges, as well as your adviser's fee.

Who is Invesco?

Investing isn't a part of what we do at Invesco – it's the only thing we do. All our energy and expertise goes into uncovering the right opportunities to help you reach your financial goals and get more out of life.

Over the last 45 years we've continually grown in order to meet the wide variety and changing needs of you, our clients, to the point where we're now one of the world's largest investment managers, with more than 8,000 investment professionals globally.

To deliver on those needs, we currently manage over 800 investment products, from simple funds to entire portfolios, like the Invesco Summit Growth Range, which altogether currently represent approximately US$1.8 trillion in assets under management.

The process

The team employs a proven and repeatable investment process when it comes to managing the funds, which can be broken down into these three key stages:

Asset allocation

The fund managers decide how much of each Invesco Summit Growth Range fund should be weighted to different asset classes (such as equities and bonds) and geographies, aiming to meet the five different risk targets while maximising returns.

01

Fund selection

Individual funds are then selected to represent the asset classes in each of the portfolios, using the wide array of Invesco products available to the range. The outcome is a well-diversified range of 20–30 underlying funds.

Portfolio construction

Before the final portfolios are agreed, they are analysed by the team's dedicated risk manager to ensure that they are aligned with their intended risk targets and that the risk exposures are consistent across the range.

03

Although we distil it down into these simple steps, the investment process doesn't ever stop. Financial markets never sleep, so we stay on top of the research to ensure that the funds continue to serve our clients as best as possible.

While your overall holding in an Invesco Summit Growth Range fund may be liable for Capital Gains Tax, it is important to note that the buying and selling of the underlying funds within the range (made by the fund managers) are not liable for Capital Gains Tax, unlike a typical investment portfolio.

More information and how to invest

To invest in the Invesco Summit Growth Range, the funds are available on all major investment platforms, such as Hargreaves Lansdown, Fidelity and AJ Bell.

They can be held as standard investments, or in tax-efficient wrappers such as self-invested pensions or stocks and shares ISAs.

If you're unsure which fund to use or about investing in general, we recommend you speak to a financial adviser. Visit www.unbiased.co.uk to find a local financial adviser if you don't already have one.

Glossary

Investing is a complicated world so, inevitably, there are some complicated words. To help improve your understanding, below we've provided definitions for some of the key and commonly used terms.

Equities

When you invest in equities, also called shares, you invest in a company. So, in a small way, you become a part owner of that company. Equities are typically seen as a riskier investment than bonds and cash, but they also have higher return potential.

Bonds

When a bond is bought, the buyer is lending the issuer (government or corporate) money for a certain period. The issuer then pays interest at a pre-determined rate and at the end of the agreed period they repay the value of the original loan in full.

Alternatives

These are investments which do not fit into traditional asset class categories – common examples include real estate, currencies and commodities. Typically alternatives have a low performance correlation with other asset classes, and can therefore serve as a useful diversifier in an investment portfolio.

Cash

The least risky asset available to the funds. Deposit accounts are straightforward, relatively safe and can be accessed at short notice if required.

Investment risks

The value of investments and any income will fluctuate (this may partly be the result of exchange rate fluctuations) and investors may not get back the full amount invested.

The issuers of the debt securities to which the product is exposed may not always make interest and other payments due to financial difficulties or insolvency. The value of the debt securities may fall due to poor market conditions, such as a decrease in market liquidity, and/or variations in interest rates. These risks increase where the product invests in high yield, or lower credit quality, bonds.

The product may be exposed to securities of emerging and developing markets, where difficulties in relation to market liquidity, dealing, settlement and custody problems could arise which could result in losses.

The product's use of financial derivatives may result in the product being leveraged, that is, the economic exposure created by using a derivative may be greater than the amount invested. The product, therefore, has the potential to lose more than it paid. If a counterparty becomes insolvent this will also result in a loss. The use of certain derivatives may also impair the product's liquidity which may mean the product has to close positions at an unfavourable price.
