

Ling Chiu

Senior Portfolio Manager (Stable Value), Louisville

When you were a student, what types of careers interested you? What led you to choose asset management?

Like many others, I landed on an asset management job by chance. During my last semester in college, my finance professor told the class an internship was available at PRIMCO Capital Management (then an Invesco subsidiary). Not knowing much, I applied immediately and was offered the position. As it turned out, my math degree and minor in actuarial science prepared me well for asset management, especially fixed income. Upon graduation, I was hired as an investment manager. During my 25 years at Invesco, I have traded money market instruments and corporate bonds, had oversight of external managers and continued to manage stable value portfolios. With the support of Invesco, I also earned my MBA and CFA designation. I feel fortunate in my career path!

“As a portfolio manager, my mission is to manage the funds with the greatest care by seeking sound investments and applying prudent strategies.”

Invesco’s Purpose is to “Help people get more out of life through a superior client experience.” What does that mean to you in your role?

As a portfolio manager, my mission is to manage the funds with the greatest care by seeking sound investments and applying prudent strategies.

How does Invesco’s culture help deliver a superior client experience? What are the elements of a strong investment-led culture?

A strong investment-led culture is comprised of prudent, capable and experienced investment professionals who can work as a team. Every day, we monitor the marketplace for investment opportunities. We must question and reevaluate ongoing strategies to ensure we are meeting our clients’ objectives in the current economic environment. We must respond to clients’ questions and concerns promptly. Our clients should feel that we are smart (not arrogant), resourceful, diligent and of the highest ethical standards.

What do you find most valuable about the Invesco Women’s Network?

I have served on the Louisville planning committee for two years. The organization is valuable for its visibility. It sends a strong message to employees that Invesco supports such an organization to embrace the women working at Invesco!