How can non-LGBT+ identifying individuals be good allies during Pride month, and beyond?

“Don’t be afraid to ask questions. When we see someone as different than us, we can be afraid to get to know them. That fear can turn into preconceived ideas and prejudices. We are all different, but we are all equal. When I was coming out, it was a very scary process for me. I felt very isolated and it would have been great to have people to talk to. So, please don’t be afraid to ask questions or show support. Communication is key to being a great ally.”
