

Nathanael Pye
CAS Representative
Charlottetown, Canada
Pronouns: he/him

Why is it important to have allies in the workplace?

“It is important to have allies in the office for those days when it seems like all eyes are on you. When you can see that look on peoples’ faces, the look everyone in the LGBT+ community has felt. That pondering glare that pierces the soul, racking their brains to decide best how to categorize our livelihood. Without allies, this persistent thought process, of awaiting ridicule, is enough to cripple the best of us both mentally and physically.”