Biography

Nili Gilbert
Research Analyst

Nili Gilbert is a research analyst with the Global Quantitative Equity team. As a member of that team, she is responsible for statistical testing, factor analysis, coefficient derivation, and performance attribution for the quantitative models used in managing large-, mid-, and small-cap equity and tactical asset allocation portfolios.

Ms. Gilbert joined Invesco in 2003. She began her career with the Synergos Institute, which establishes financing entities in emerging market countries. During the summer of 2002, while completing her graduate work at Columbia University, she worked in institutional equities at Morgan Stanley.

Ms. Gilbert earned a Master of Business Administration degree in finance and economics from Columbia Business School. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree with a special concentration in economics and social studies from Harvard University.