

Invesco Solo 401(k)[®]
With designated Roth contributions

As a self-employed person, how will you pay for your living expenses when you're no longer able to work? And how much will you need?

A Gallup Pew Research Center survey found that 24% of small business owners don't think they'll have enough money to live comfortably in retirement.³

If these are questions you haven't asked yourself yet, here are some things you should know:

1. You're not alone.

Only 48% of workers report they have tried to calculate how much money they need to save by the time they retire so they can live comfortably in retirement.¹

2. You may not be able to rely on Social Security.

The Social Security Administration estimates the Social Security Trust Fund will be depleted and unable to pay scheduled benefits in full on a timely basis starting in 2034.²

3. You may need more than you think.

Many financial planners estimate you'll need between 60% and 70% of your current income to maintain your current standard of living in retirement.

The Invesco Solo 401(k) is a low-cost retirement plan designed for solo business owners to maximize contributions to their own retirement savings.

Save for your retirement – and improve your tax situation

The good news is there are several retirement plans available to small business owners that can help you save for retirement. One option to consider is the Solo 401(k).

Benefits of having an Invesco Solo 401(k) for your owner-only business

- 1 Tax savings – Profit sharing contributions and traditional salary deferrals are tax deductible, and earnings accumulate on a tax-deferred basis. Keep in mind, however, that any withdrawals made prior to 59½ may be subject to tax penalties.
- 2 Designated Roth contributions – This feature offers tax-free earnings growth for all investors – and tax-free distributions for those 59½ or older who meet specified criteria.¹
- 3 Low cost – Costs for an Invesco Solo 401(k) are substantially lower than those of a standard 401(k).

At a glance
Who can establish	Businesses with no employees other than the owners and their spouses ²
Flexibility of contributions	All contributions are discretionary.
Maximum profit sharing contribution	25% of your eligible compensation; maximum considered compensation is $270,000 ³ for 2017
Maximum salary deferral contribution	Lesser of $18,000 ($24,000 if 50 or older) ³ or 100% of compensation for 2017
Maximum combined contributions (both salary deferral and profit sharing)	Lesser of $54,000 or 100% of compensation ³ for 2017
Vesting	Immediate
Loans	Loans are available. Generally, you may borrow up to one-half of your account balance, but no more than $50,000.
Rollover contributions	Rollovers from other eligible plans are permitted.
Deadline to establish	End of employer's tax year with the plan document signed and effective before contributions are made.
Discrimination testing	401(k) discrimination (actual deferral percentage) and top-heavy tests are not required.
Government reporting	Form 5500EZ generally required if assets are more than $250,000
Withdrawals	Limited to the terms of the plan. In-service withdrawals are available. Minimum distributions are required for owners 70½ or older. Distributions that are not qualified Roth distributions are subject to income tax in the year withdrawn and a 10% early withdrawal penalty if withdrawn prior to 59½. ¹

² Establishing a Solo 401(k) plan will not be a viable option if you hire full-time W-2 employees age 21 or older or part-time employees who work more than 1,000 hours per year.

Frequently asked questions

What types of businesses are candidates for an Invesco Solo 401(k)?

The Invesco Solo 401(k) is designed for businesses that have no employees other than owners and their spouses. It is not designed for businesses with employees due to the additional testing and administrative requirements. If you have employees or think you may hire employees in the near future, this plan may not be appropriate for you. Discuss other plan options with your advisor.

How is the Invesco Solo 401(k) different from traditional 401(k) plans?

The primary difference is in the administrative and compliance requirements of the plan. A 401(k) plan sponsored by a business employing owners and their spouses only (no employees) is not subject to 401(k) discrimination testing and has fewer administrative requirements. 401(k) discrimination testing limits the percentage of compensation that can be deferred by highly compensated employees (as compared with the percentage of compensation deferred by nonhighly compensated employees). Owners may receive contribution refunds as a result of this testing.

In addition, a plan covering only one participant and his or her spouse is generally not required to file a Form 5500 until the plan's assets exceed $250,000.

What happens if I establish an Invesco Solo 401(k) and then hire employees?

If you anticipate hiring W-2 employees, this plan may not be appropriate for you. If the plan covers eligible employees, it will be subject to 401(k) discrimination testing, which may require refunds of all or a portion of your deferrals. You may have to make top-heavy minimum contributions, and you and your employee(s) will receive the same profit sharing contribution percentage. Review your plan provisions with your tax advisor before hiring employees.

When can I begin contributing to the plan?

You may begin making contributions once the plan is established. The Plan Adoption Agreement must be signed by the end of your business tax year. Contributions must be made by your business tax-filing due date, including extensions. Only compensation earned after the plan is adopted may be deferred. Consult your tax advisor before making annual contributions to ensure you meet the deductibility requirements.

Can I make designated Roth contributions to my Invesco Solo 401(k)?

Yes, if your Plan Document allows for it. If adding this feature to an existing plan, you must amend your Plan Document.

My spouse and I own a business. Can we both participate in the plan?

If both you and your spouse are employed by and receive compensation from the business, you are both eligible to participate in the plan.

Can I take a loan from my Invesco Solo 401(k)?

Yes, if your Plan Document allows for it. Generally, you may borrow up to one-half of your account balance, but no more than $50,000. The terms of the loan are subject to IRS regulations.

Are there any fees associated with an Invesco Solo 401(k)?

Yes:

- An annual administrative fee of $15 per participant account. The annual fee is waived for accounts with a balance of $50,000 or greater on the day the fee is assessed.
- Loan fees:
 - $50 loan application fee
 - $25 annual loan administrative maintenance fee
