Why is Invesco making this portfolio management change?

Portfolio Manager Paul Chan will be retiring from Invesco at the end of 2018, following 17 years with Invesco. We sincerely thank Paul for all his contributions and wish him all the best post retirement.

Portfolio Managers, William Yuen and Daiji Ozawa will continue to be co-leads on the Fund. Mr. Yuen has 20 years of investment experience. He joined Invesco in 2004 as a Fund Manager and is currently an Investment Director. He is the lead manager of a China equity strategy and select institutional and pension mandates, focusing on Asia ex Japan / Hong Kong & China markets. Mr. Ozawa has 30 years of investment experience. He joined Invesco in 2010 as a Fund Manager and is currently the CIO of the Invesco's Japanese Equity Value complex. Mr. Chan will remain with Invesco until the end of year and will work closely with Mr. Yuen and Mr. Ozawa to ensure a smooth transition.

Will these changes affect the investment objective or investment process of the Fund?

No. The investment objective, philosophy and process for the Fund will not change.
