Invesco announces changes to Invesco Pacific Growth Fund

Effective on or about June 15, 2019, the following changes will be made to Invesco Pacific Growth Fund (the "Fund"):

- The Fund will become an Asia ex Japan portfolio and will exclude Japan from its investment universe,
- Portfolio management will transition to a centralized portfolio management approach with a new investment process; and
- The Fund will adopt a new style-specific/broad-based index.

Note that the Fund's CUSIPs and tickers will not change.

Why are we making these changes?

The investment team believes that the Fund will be better positioned to maximize its growth mandate by focusing on companies outside of the Japanese market.

How will these changes affect the Fund's investment objective, process or positioning?

Contrary to the sleeved management approach used today, the investment team will utilize an actively managed bottom-up fundamental analysis focused on valuation, management/franchise value determination (including management and ownership, earnings quarterly, balance sheet quality and product quality), and earnings growth.

Will there be any changes to the investment team?

Yes. Mike Shiao, Chief Investment Officer, Asia ex-Japan will become the sole named portfolio manager to the Fund.

William Yuen, who currently manages the Asia Pacific region (excluding Japan), and Daiji Ozawa, who currently manages the Japanese region, will no longer be listed as portfolio managers on the fund.

Will the Fund's index change?

Yes. Under the new investment strategy, the Fund has elected to use the MSCI All Country Asia ex Japan Index to represent its broad-based/style-specific securities market benchmark rather than the MSCI EAFE Index and MSCI All Country Asia Pacific Index because the MSCI All Country Asia ex Japan Index more closely reflects the performance of the types of securities in which the Fund invests.

Will there be any changes to the Fund's fees and expenses?

No. There will be no change to Fund's annual operating expenses. Please see the current prospectus for detailed information.
