

Estimated 2024 Invesco Fund Distributions

Some Invesco funds will make distributions during the remainder of 2024. To help with year-end planning, the table starting on page 2 lists estimated 2024 capital gain distributions and Class A share net asset values (NAV) as of September 30, 2024.

These numbers represent estimates as of September 30, 2024, and will change based on market volatility, portfolio and shareholder activity, and tax adjustments. Estimated income figures will not be provided.

Fund distributions: What does that mean for me?

Q: What is a capital gain?

A: A capital gain is the profit that results when a mutual fund sells a security at a price higher than the purchase price. In contrast, a capital loss results when a mutual fund sells a security at a price lower than the purchase price. For tax purposes, capital gains are offset by any capital losses. If a fund's capital gains exceed its capital losses, it will distribute the net capital gains to shareholders.

Q: What is the difference between an unrealized capital gain and a realized capital gain?

A: When the value of a fund holding increases, the fund has an unrealized gain until the security is sold. Once this security is sold, the fund realizes the gain and must pay a distribution unless the gain is offset by capital losses.

Q: Why do mutual funds pay capital gains?

A: Mutual funds are required under federal tax law to distribute realized capital gains to shareholders in the taxable year the gains are realized, or under specified circumstances, within 12 months after the close of the taxable year.

Q: What is contributing to a capital gain?

A: There can be several factors that contribute to a capital gain. One factor could be general market performance has been overall higher. Another factor is a holding that has appreciated in value and was subsequently sold out of the fund. Sometimes a fund may need to sell a holding to provide liquidity in order to meet fund redemptions. Or simply maybe the portfolio managers want to replace a holding with another holding that may provide greater future returns or help to minimize risk.

Q: Why did my mutual fund not pay a capital gain?

A: The fund has realized capital losses in the current or prior year which offset all of its realized capital gains. A capital loss results when a mutual fund sells a security at a price lower than the purchase price. Mutual funds may or may not pay a capital gain distribution in any given year.

Q: Can a fund pay a capital gain if its total return was negative?

A: Yes. Even if a fund's total return was negative, a fund may have realized net capital gains (its capital gains exceeded its capital losses) as a result of selling securities. As a result, the fund will distribute the net capital gains to shareholders.

Q: How does a fund distribution affect the fund's net asset value?

A: On the date of the distribution, the distribution is taken out of the fund's per-share net asset value, so the per-share net asset value decreases by the amount of the distribution, net of any market fluctuations.

Q: How will I know my actual amount of the capital gain?

A: A fund's NAV will drop on the distribution ex-date to reflect the portfolio's NAV after distribution; this drop would be in addition to any effect the market's performance had on the securities within the fund's portfolio. Communications regarding final distributions will be at the share class level with CUSIPs and tickers throughout December. Actual distributions will appear on shareholders' 1099-DIV forms, which will be mailed in January 2025 subject to the exception regarding certain real estate and MLP funds stated on the last page.

Q: Will the capital gain impact my taxes in my retirement account?

A: The distributions should not impose a tax burden on shareholders holding shares through a retirement account. Please check with your tax advisor for additional information.

Q: What if my fund is not listed in the Estimated Invesco Fund Capital Gains table?

A: If a fund is not listed in the below Capital Gains table, it is not expected to pay a capital gain.

Please note that funds not expected to pay a capital gain could potentially pay income distributions. If any income is distributed for non-periodic distributing funds, the pay dates are listed below in the Estimated 2024 Invesco Funds Anticipated Pay Dates table.
