Invesco Unit Trusts

A strategy that seeks to provide investors access to companies selected from the Nasdaq-100 Index (the "Nasdaq-100") as a core portfolio position.

- 1 Leaders in innovation – With category-defining companies at the forefront of innovation, the Nasdaq-100 Index defines today's modern-day industrials. While the businesses of these companies span different sectors and industries, the common theme among them is an identity built on innovation.
- 2 Consistent growth – Revenue and earnings growth screens target faster-growing companies, while final portfolio construction maintains focus on relative valuations and other fundamental factors.
- 3 Equal-weighted approach – A weighting methodology allowing for exposure to leading growth companies while minimizing the impact of being too concentrated in a single issuer relative to other weighting methodologies.

A relentless focus on investment and innovation by Nasdaq-100 companies

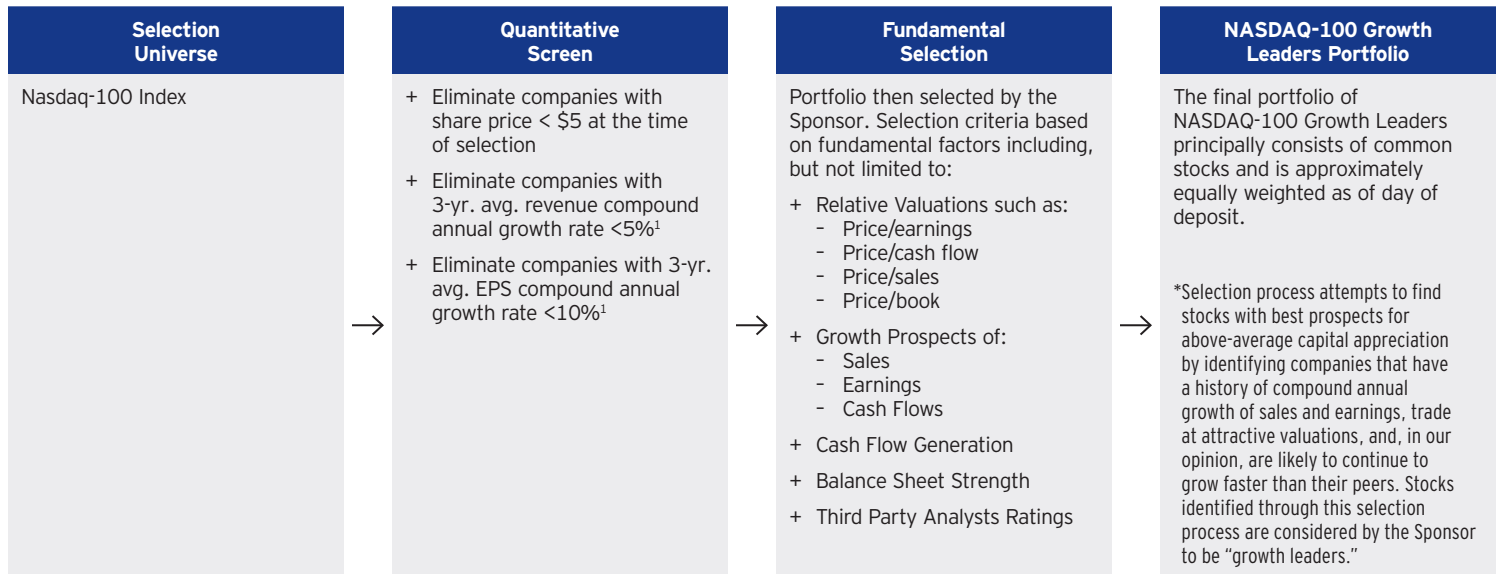

A relentless focus on investment and innovation by companies comprising the Nasdaq-100 Index has translated into strong investment performance relative to the S&P 500 Index and Russell 1000 Growth Index.

About risk

There is no assurance that a unit investment trust will achieve its investment objective. An investment in this unit investment trust is subject to market risk, which is the possibility that the market values of securities owned by the trust will decline and that the value of trust units may therefore be less than what you paid for them. Recently, an outbreak of a respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus, COVID-19, has spread globally in a short period of time, resulting in the disruption of, and delays in, production and supply chains and the delivery of healthcare services and processes, as well as the cancellation of organized events and educational institutions, quarantines, a decline in consumer demand for certain goods and services, and general concern and uncertainty. COVID-19 and its effects have contributed to increased volatility in global markets, severe losses, liquidity constraints, and lowered yields. The duration of such effects cannot yet be determined but could be present for an extended period of time and may adversely affect the value of your Units. This trust is unmanaged and its Portfolio is not intended to change during the trust's life except in limited circumstances. Accordingly, you can lose money investing in this trust. The trust should be considered as part of a long-term investment strategy and you should consider your ability to pursue it by investing in successive trusts, if available. You will realize tax consequences associated with investing from one series to the next.

While the Portfolio seeks to invest in securities focused on growth, several of those securities also pay dividends. To the extent an issuer currently pays dividends, an issuer may be unwilling or unable to declare dividends in the future, or may reduce the level of dividends declared. This may result in a reduction in the value of your Units.

The financial condition of an issuer may worsen or its credit ratings may drop, resulting in a reduction in the value of your Units. This may occur at any point in time, including during the initial offering period.

You could experience dilution of your investment if the size of the Portfolio is increased as Units are sold. There is no assurance that your investment will maintain its proportionate share in the Portfolio's profits and losses. Security prices will fluctuate. The value of your investment may fall over time.

The Portfolio does not replicate all of the components of the Nasdaq-100 Index or its component weightings and the stocks in the Portfolio will not change or rebalance if the index components, or their weightings within the index, change or rebalance. The performance of the Portfolio will not correspond with the Nasdaq-100 Index for this reason and because the Portfolio incurs a sales charge and expenses. The Portfolio is not intended to replicate the performance of the index.

The Portfolio is concentrated in securities issued by companies in the information technology industry. The information technology industry faces risks related to rapidly changing technology, rapid product obsolescence, cyclical market patterns, evolving industry standards and frequent new product introductions. Negative developments in this industry will affect the value of your investment more than would be the case for a more diversified investment.

We do not actively manage the Portfolio. Except in limited circumstances, the Portfolio will hold, and may continue to buy, shares of the same securities even if their market value declines.

Trust Objective. The Portfolio seeks to provide the potential for above-average capital appreciation. The portfolio seeks to achieve its objective by principally investing in a portfolio of common stocks of companies derived from the Nasdaq-100 Index.

Before investing, investors should carefully read the prospectus and consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses. For this and more complete information about the trust, investors should ask their advisor(s) for a prospectus or download one at invesco.com/uit.

The information in the prospectus is not complete and may be changed. We may not sell these securities until the registration statement filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission is effective. The prospectus is not an offer to sell these securities and is not soliciting an offer to buy these securities in any state where the offer or sale is not permitted.
