Invesco Oppenheimer International Small-Mid Company Fund: Portfolio Management Change

Invesco is pleased to announce that effective Nov. 5, 2019, David Nadel has joined the New York-based Global Equity Team as the Lead Portfolio Manager of the Invesco Oppenheimer International Small-Mid Company Fund. Current portfolio manager, Frank Jennings, Ph.D., will serve as co-portfolio manager on the strategy to ensure a smooth transition. As with the other strategies managed by this team, David and Frank will draw on the combined resources of the broader Global Equity Team and its 24 investment professionals who have a wide range of backgrounds and areas of expertise.

David has over 26 years of investment experience and a long history of managing international small and mid-cap stock portfolios. Prior to joining Invesco, he was the Lead Portfolio Manager of the Royce International Premier Fund since its inception of Dec. 31, 2010 through Oct. 21, 2019.

The Invesco Oppenheimer International Small-Mid Company Fund has been a principal strategy for the Global Equity Team since its launch in 1997. We believe David's process-driven approach focusing on leading companies with strong competitive advantages, high returns-on-capital and financial strength is a great fit for our investors in this Fund. We are excited to have a manager of his caliber join the team.
