John Burrello, CFA®, CAIA®

John Burrello is a Senior Portfolio Manager for Invesco's Global Strategies team, which develops and manages derivatives-based investment strategies. In this role, he focuses on outcome-oriented equity and multi-asset investment strategies, including options-based income, hedging strategies, asset allocation, commodities, and global macro.

Mr. Burrello joined Invesco in 2012 as a senior derivatives trader, responsible for options-based strategies and capital markets solutions. In 2016, he transitioned to what is now the Global Strategies team. Prior to joining the firm, he was a partner at Continental Advisors, a Chicago-based hedge fund, where he specialized in equity research, derivative-based risk management, and portfolio construction. Mr. Burrello began his investment management career at UBS O'Connor in 1999.

Mr. Burrello earned a BA degree from Indiana University. He is a Chartered Financial Analyst® (CFA) charterholder and member of the CFA Society of Atlanta. He is also a Chartered Alternative Investment Analyst® (CAIA) charterholder and was a founding chapter executive for CAIA Atlanta.
