

The all-weather portfolio

Invesco Equity and Income Fund is an actively managed strategy designed to weather the market's ups and downs. The fund is composed of large cap value stocks, high quality bonds and convertible securities focused on the potential for growth and income with safety of principal.

Thirty years of the same investment process

30 years

The fund's current investment process has been in place since 1990. In that time, the fund delivered a cumulative return of 11.71%, versus 9.26% for the Russell 1000 Value Index and 7.42% for the Lipper peer group.<sup>1</sup>

A cushion during market declines

The fund outperformed its benchmark and peers by an average of 7.54% and 1.72%, respectively, during downturns in 2001, 2002 and 2008.<sup>2</sup>

A potentially smoother ride

The fund has achieved equity-like returns with less volatility (10.89%) than its benchmark (14.83%) and in line with peers (10.37%) for the 30-year period ending 09/30/22.<sup>3</sup>

A history of adding value

A $10,000 investment in the fund at NAV would have delivered $127,130<sup>1</sup>

1 Performance shown is for Class A shares at NAV from September 30, 1990 through September 30, 2022. Peers defined by the Lipper Mixed-Asset Target Allocation Growth Funds Index. Benchmark is the Russell 1000 Value Index.

Performance quoted is past performance and cannot guarantee comparable future results; current performance may be lower or higher. Visit invesco.com for the most recent month-end performance. Performance figures reflect reinvested distributions and changes in net asset value (NAV). Investment return and principal value will vary so that you may have a gain or a loss when you sell shares. Had fees not been waived and/or expenses reimbursed in the past, returns would have been lower. Performance shown at NAV does not include the applicable front-end sales charge, which would have reduced the performance. Class Y shares have no sales charge; therefore, performance is at NAV. Class Y shares are available only to certain investors. See current prospectus for more information.

About Risk

In general, stock values fluctuate, sometimes widely, in response to activities specific to the company as well as general market, economic and political conditions.

An issuer may be unable to meet interest and/or principal payments, thereby causing its instruments to decrease in value and lowering the issuer's credit rating.

Convertible securities may be affected by market interest rates, the risk of issuer default, the value of the underlying stock or the issuers right to buy back the convertible securities.

The risks of investing in securities of foreign issuers can include fluctuations in foreign currencies, political and economic instability, and foreign taxation issues.

A value style of investing is subject to the risk that the valuations never improve or that the returns will trail other styles of investing or the overall stock markets.

Derivatives may be more volatile and less liquid than traditional investments and are subject to market, interest rate, credit, leverage, counterparty and management risks. An investment in a derivative could lose more than the cash amount invested.

Preferred securities may include provisions that permit the issuer to defer or omit distributions for a certain period of time and reporting the distribution for tax purposes may be required, even though the income may not have been received. Further, preferred securities may lose substantial value due to the omission or deferment of dividend payments.

Stocks of small and mid-sized companies tend to be more vulnerable to adverse developments, may be more volatile, and may be illiquid or restricted as to resale.

Interest rate risk refers to the risk that bond prices generally fall as interest rates rise and vice versa.

Diversification does not guarantee a profit or eliminate the risk of loss.

The fund is subject to certain other risks. Please see the current prospectus for more information regarding the risks associated with an investment in the fund.
