

Important 2023 tax return document

Enclosed is information that, together with your Form 1099-DIV, will assist you in completing your 2023 income tax return:

- Form 1099-DIV reports the taxable income dividends, capital gains and exempt-interest dividends distributed to you by certain Invesco funds during 2023. In addition, the Form 1099-DIV, where applicable, provides the portion of income that is considered for federal alternative minimum tax treatment. Exempt interest dividends are dividends that are not subject to federal income tax but must be reported on your federal income tax return.
- This letter provides other pertinent information you may need to prepare your federal tax return. It will assist you in calculating your state tax liability if you live in a state that provides for special treatment of dividends that are derived from interest on obligations exempt from federal tax.
- If your fund is not listed, please disregard this letter.

Tax-exempt income by state and federal alternative minimum tax (AMT) percentage for national trusts

In addition to its exemption from federal income taxes, a portion of your tax-exempt income may be free from state and local income taxes, depending on the tax laws of your state or local taxing authority. If you own one of Invesco's national tax-exempt funds, the percentage of your fund's tax-exempt income by state is outlined in the table on page three. Tax-exempt income is reported in Box 12 on Form 1099-DIV and income subject to federal AMT is reported in Box 13.

Please consult your tax advisor to determine whether you are eligible for state tax exemption for this portion of your fund's income.

Income from US government obligations

Most states do not tax interest derived from US government obligations. However, states vary in the definition of federal interest, and certain states have special requirements. States vary on treatment of these dividends. The table below shows the percentage of ordinary income dividend on your Form 1099-DIV derived from federal obligations.

Federal alternative minimum tax

The federal AMT applies to individuals who enjoy certain tax benefits, such as large deductions or exclusions from income. This tax prevents those individuals from avoiding a minimum tax liability on their income. Federal AMT income may be found on Form 1099-DIV, Box 13.

If your tax-exempt fund invests in certain private activity bonds, you could be subject to federal AMT. The percentage of your fund's tax-exempt income that is subject to federal AMT is outlined as follows:

- State-specific funds — See table below
- National funds — See table on next page
